

Survey: Research Software Engineering in the Netherlands

The purpose of this survey

The purpose of this survey is to collect information about people who develop software that is used in research. Increasingly, these people are being referred to as Research Software Engineers \(RSEs\). Their formal job titles vary widely, ranging from professor to PhD candidate and from data steward to research assistant.

Why did I receive this invitation?

You have received this link because you are working at an organisation in the Netherlands that may employ people who could identify as Research Software Engineer.

There is currently very little reliable information about the RSE community in the Netherlands. That's why the Netherlands eScience Center, ePLAN (Platform of eScience/Data Research Centers in the Netherlands), the recently started NL-RSE Community, and the UK Research Software Engineer Association have decided to take the first step in collecting this information. The aim is to generate insights in the emergence of the position of developers of research software in the Netherlands. We hope the information will help funders, universities and other research organisations develop policies that will support RSEs. This questionnaire gives you the opportunity to express your views about your current job and give us information about your career path.

Please note that this survey is not compulsory and even if you decide to participate you can withdraw at any moment.

How long will it take?

There is a maximum of 45 questions in this survey. It takes about 10 minutes to complete.

Who is responsible for this survey?

This study is conducted by the University of Southampton on behalf of the Software Sustainability Institute and complies with University of Southampton ethics guidelines (reference no.: ERGO/FPSE/30610). The investigators are Simon Hettrick and Olivier Philippe. Contact persons in the Netherlands are Ben van Werkhoven and Tom Bakker from the Netherlands eScience Center.

The survey is hosted on Limesurvey servers in Germany and respects the provisions of the Data Protection Act. These records are anonymised and access is strictly protected and granted to the main researchers only. The results of the survey will be released publicly but only after they have been processed to ensure that individual respondents can not be identified. The results will be released under a Creative Commons by attribution, non-commercial licence.

If you would like more information about the research or about the data collection, please contact Olivier Philippe.

If you have a concern or would like to make a complaint, please contact Simon Hettrick.

There are 45 questions in this survey.

Your working practices

19 Has your software contributed to research that has been published in a journal or at a conference? *

Please choose only one of the following:

☐ Yes

☐ No

20 In general, when your software contributes to a paper, are you acknowledged in that paper? *

Please choose only one of the following:

☐ Yes

☐ No

21 Are you generally named as the main author of the paper? *

Please choose only one of the following:

☐ Yes

☐ No

22 Are you generally named as a co-author of the paper? *

Please choose only one of the following:

☐ Yes

☐ No

23 Are you generally acknowledged in the main text of the paper? *

Please choose only one of the following:

☐ Yes

☐ No

24 Have you ever presented your software work at a conference or workshop? *

Please choose only one of the following:

☐ Yes

☐ No

25 How many software projects are you currently involved in? *

Please write your answer here:

26 What is the bus factor of your most important software project? (the bus factor is the number of team members who if run over by a bus would put the project in jeopardy so 1 means the project is dependent on a single person) *

Please choose only one of the following:

- ☐ 3
- ☐ 5+

27 Is there a technical hand-over plan for your most important software project? *

Please choose only one of the following:

- ☐ Yes
- ☐ No

28 In general, what sort of testing do you conduct on your software? (check all that apply) *

Please choose all that apply:

- ☐ No formal testing
- ☐ Developers conduct testing
- ☐ test engineers conduct testing
- ☐ Users conduct testing

29 Have you ever released your software under an open-source licence? *

Please choose only one of the following:

☐ Yes

☐ No

30 How often do you release the software projects you've worked on under an open-source licence? *
